

3.032

Accomplice Not Present

An absent defendant is criminally accountable for the conduct of another if the absent defendant caused the other person to commit an offense and the absent defendant had the culpable mental state required for the commission of that offense.

Source: A.R.S. § 13-303(A)(2).